Cut In Manpower Sign Of Viet Withdrawal?

★ ★ ★ Not Necessarily So—Laird

By BOB HORTON
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon's 100,000-plus cut in military manpower is likely to be viewed as a sign the Nixon administration is thinking big in the way of future troop withdrawals from Vietnam.

Secretary of Defense Melvin

MELVIN R. LAIRD
Secretary of Defense

R. Laird, announcing the cut Thursday, said the military reduction over the next 10 months doesn't necessarily imply a Vietnam cut of that scope.

But he specifically ruled out combat troop withdrawals from West Germany, South Korea and Okinawa—leaving Vietnam as one of the few remaining places where large numbers of Americans are stationed.

REPLACEMENT FACTOR
Pentagon officials admit privately that Laird considers potential replacement of U.S. troops by South Vietnamese a factor in his plans to trim the over-all American military force level.

Furthermore, President Nixon said in June he hoped to be able to more than match a suggestion by former Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford to get 100,000 combat troops out of Vietnam this year.

Some military officers believe the next withdrawal announced by the President will probably amount to no more than 25,000 men. Further pullouts could take place over coming months.

At Thursday's news conference, Laird would not commit himself on the administration decision this month on whether to go beyond the presently authorized 25,000-man troop reduction in Vietnam.

TO SLASH SPENDING
The "more than 100,000" man reduction comes as part of a congressionally directed Pentagon effort to slash defense spending by another $3 billion for the current fiscal year. Laird already lopped $1.1 bil-

Marijuana Harvest Suspected

Police Arrest
Four Near Niles

NILES — State police at the Niles post said that four youths were arrested last night and booked on charges of possession of marijuana.

Arrested were Kenneth Dwight Coleman, 19, Niles; Thomas Allen Houghton, 18, Camerillo, Calif.; Bruce Allen Quigley, 19, Mansfield, Mass.; and Edward Ronald Bland, 20, St. Charles, Miss.

Troopers said the arrests were made about 6:45 p.m. in Niles township, after they stopped an auto operated by Houghton and found about 40 pounds of a substance believed to be marijuana wrapped in a sheet.

Troopers said the auto was stopped after an area resident told them he saw youths picking weeds he thought to be marijuana from near the edge of a road. The resident provided officers a description of the auto.

Troopers said the four were lodged in the Niles city jail and were to be arraigned today in Fifth District court, Niles.

HURRICANE FORECASTING EQUIPMENT INADEQUATE?

Official Issues Plea To Agnew

Could Check
Storm Winds
Hours Earlier

MIAMI (AP) — While rescue workers pulled hurricane Camille's dead from the Mississippi mud, the nation's top hurricane forecaster said he gave Vice President Spiro T. Agnew "both barrels" on the need for better equipment.

"Nobody up there in the storm-struck area had any fault to find with the job we did, but we know how much better we could have read Camille and the storm's intensity 12 hours earlier if we had had the kind of equipment we needed," said Dr. Robert H. Simpson.

Simpson, director of the National Hurricane Center, toured the stricken area with Agnew this week.

"I gave him both barrels about what we didn't have and what we need," Simpson told the Miami Herald.

Simpson said he told Agnew, "Some old Navy Constellations which should have been junked years ago trailed Camille all day Saturday and didn't dare go into the storm because they knew their aircraft couldn't stand up under the pounding."

He said he "finally got an Air Force plane in there about 5 p.m. Saturday and it recorded the lowest barometric pressure ever found by any aircraft inside a hurricane of record."

TRIPLING OF FUNDS

"The Navy has a wonderful instrument package and lousy airplanes. The Air Force has wonderful planes and lousy instruments. It's past time for somebody in Washington to get everybody together."

The forecaster said funds for weather research should be tripled from their current annual rate of $750,000.

Agnew "listened to every word and made a lot of notes but he didn't promise me anything," Simpson said in an interview with a Miami Herald reporter.

Simpson said Camille's estimated 200-mile-an-hour winds "placed them right at the threshold of tornado intensity" and by any yardstick, it was the greatest storm ever recorded in the United States.

HEAD INTO ATLANTIC

Meanwhile Camille and Hurricane Debbie both churned to the northeast deep in the Atlantic, threatening only shipping lanes. Early today Camille was at Latitude 42 north, Longitude 56 west, or some 350 miles south of Newfoundland. The storm's

Migrant Leader Asks Talks With Governor Bad Conditions Alleged

LANSING (AP)—Gov. William Milliken has been asked to discuss what were described as "the outrageous conditions of migrant workers in the state" with representatives of La Raza Unida, a coalition of Mexican-American groups in Michigan.

Ray Cardenas, chairman of the coalition, also outlined several steps the group believes the governor should take, including the discussion with Mexican-Americans before his special task force on migrant labor makes any recommendations.

Mexican-Americans, Cardenas said, "do not want solutions imposed from above—we want to be part of the solution."

"The voiceless, the powerless, the forgotten people, are calling on you to meet these reasonable requests for action," Cardenas told the governor. "Help us maintain the nonviolent nature of the struggle we have waged for over 20 years to bring justice to our people."

Cardenas listed the following as "actions the governor could take now:

—Act on a 10-month old request to appoint a Mexican-American to the Michigan Civil Rights Commission.

—Establish an American-Mexican office within the governor's office with adequate funding and staffing to handle problems of migrant and resident Mexican-American poor.

—Encourage the Michigan State Housing Development

Authority to make migrant housing a top priority.

—Fire Mexican-Americans in all state agencies.

—Order the wage deviation board to revise its piece rate scale to insure that migrants will in fact earn the basic state minimum hourly wage regardless of the condition of the crop.

—Support legislation to fulfill the promise of state legislation for the construction of two state migrant labor rest camps.

Czech Reds Flex Their Muscles

Army Shows
Power, Then
Quits Prague

PRAGUE (AP) — Tanks and troops pulled out of Prague today after demonstrations on the first anniversary of the Soviet invasion underlining the deep division between the Czechoslovak people and their Communist government.

Communist party leader Gustav Husak's regime sent tens of thousands of Czechoslovak soldiers and 60 tanks into downtown Prague Thursday night in a massive demonstration of military strength.

It shocked and angered many Czechs who remembered all too well how Soviet tanks took over the city and the country on Aug. 20-21 last year.

ONLY 2 REMAIN

After five hours of maneuvering in the streets and spotlighting some apartment house windows, the tanks rolled back across the Vltava River and all but two left the city. Those two fell into a subway excavation. They a and their weary crews were still there this morning, guarded by police.

The other army units also departed. Street cleaners began clearing away the debris left by the rioting in which the public showed its frustration at a year of occupation and increasing accommodation to Soviet direction.

Prague Radio said five persons had been killed in riots—two youths 18 and 19 in Prague Wednesday night, and three persons in Brno on Thursday. The broadcast said 12 persons were injured in Brno.

Thousands of young Czechs clashed in Prague with the helmeted riot police, but many thousands more citizens demonstrated in more passive fashion.

They responded with obvious enthusiasm to underground leaflets urging them to turn the anniversary into a "day of shame" with boycotts of public transport and stores. Streetcars were almost empty, and stores were nearly deserted.

More than 40,000 massed in Wenceslas Square. Crowds of youths resisted clouds of tear gas and truncheons of the security forces who finally cleared the city center.

The demonstrators chanted that Husak was a traitor, sang the national anthem and shouted "Russians go home." Over and over they cried "Long live Dubcek!" in tribute to Alexander Dubcek, the popular reformer that Husak replaced in April.

'TERRIBLE THING'

"It was an important occasion for the people," a woman said. "We are being told now so much about the invasion being justified. We started having doubts. On Thursday we found out that even after a year everybody still agrees it was a terrible thing—we found out we still agree with each other."

In Bratislava, the Slovak capital, there also were clashes with police. Shots were fired over the heads of demonstrators, and arrests were made.

In Brno, Czechoslovakia's second largest city, witnesses reported that a young man poured gasoline on his clothes and set himself afire. They said the flames were quickly extinguished and the man carried off.

Youths there threw cobblestones at police who dispersed about 5,000 demonstrators with tear gas and baton charges.

In Prague, most of the demonstration had ended when the tanks arrived, but groups of youths tried unsuccessfully to barricade several streets

Pleasure Boaters May Be Water Contaminators

There are few problems susceptible of a pat answer. Withholding drugs from an addict or booze from an alcoholic are some examples coming readily to mind, but for the most part, a specific answer to a given problem is hard to find. Introducing a cure to the causes in most questions usually spins off an interaction of more problems. The battle orders against pollution for the moment are issued in simplistic form.

- Prohibit hard pesticides, human effluent and factory wastes from entering the water courses.
- A better system for disposing of trash and garbage than dumping it on the nearest vacant lot.
- Neutralizing automotive exhaust and other fuel gases, or using noncombustible energy sources to clean up the air.
- Unquestionably the foregoing are the major villains in fouling the land, sea and air, but an engineering group from the University of Michigan reports there may be other contributors to pollution whose innocent appearance belies their dangerous potential. Specifically, the U-M engineers are suggesting the government may have to crack down on watercraft of all sorts.

Prof. Walter J. Weber, Jr., the son of Wally Weber, Benton Harbor high school's celebrated football coach in the late '20s, intimates boats are floating hazards to water purity.

Daily, he points out, some 8 million boats on U.S. waters discharge as much waste as does a city of half a million inhabitants. This is solid or semi-solid junk in the category of garbage, sewage and bilge. Some fish may thrive on the stuff, but the practice is raising a hob with game fish and the other elements of a desirable ecology.

The other miscreant which Weber's task force is starting to measure is the outboard motor so dear to the fisherman, the vacationer and the stay-at-home weekend.

The engine makers almost uniformly now submerge the motor's exhaust system to reduce noise and prevent the fumes from irritating the boater.

Weber says his group's preliminary studies indicate the practice is contributing significant quantities of unburned hydrocarbons, lead and halides (a compound in which either fluorine, chlorine, iodine, bromine or astatine is a constituent) to the waters. Additionally, there is a question of fuel and lubricant run-off and other drainage.

The pleasure boater probably would be the last person to suspect he may be fouling the waters anywhere close to the intensity with which industry and municipalities are accused of doing, or even degrading them at all.

It will be months before the task force completes its findings and possibly the results will not emerge in the bleakness now posed by its members.

If, though, the report approaches those from the U.S. Surgeon General's office about the dangers in smoking cigarettes, there could be a real money-brook.

One can almost hear the pleasure boaters remarking about someone is always trying to take the joy out of life, and threatening dire reprisals at the polls to any legislator daring to vote for a bill to hold boating to manual rowing or struggling with a tricky sail.

Ersatz Milk Warning

In advising that the use of imitation milk in the diets of infants "is generally undesirable and should be discouraged," the council on foods and nutrition of the American Medical Association has entered the growing controversy over imitation foods and their relative nutritional values.

"Imitation milks," the council said, "usually provide about the same number of calories as whole cows' milk with a greater percentage of calories derived from carbohydrates. Such products may not supply the other nutrients for which milk is noted."

"In the United States, the use of such beverages, that are low in protein, minerals, or vitamins compared to milk, in the diets of children and infants is generally undesirable and should be discouraged."

Without condemning imitation milk, the Council advised physicians to determine the contents of such products before recommending them to their patients. This would seem to put an inordinate burden on the limited time available to the physician for such research.

A better approach would be for the Council to follow through with its original warning and provide doctors an itemized breakdown of the various food substances provided by milk substitutes.

Claude Debussy, French composer, is identified with musical impressionism although he preferred to call himself simply a "French musician."

Certain revolutionary characteristics of his work, such as unresolved discords, exotic scales and free forms, prepared the way for many of the developments of modern music.

He was born at St. Germain-en-Laye in 1862. He received his musical training at the Paris Conservatoire and gained many prizes for his piano playing, accompanying, counterpoint and fugue and — in his final year — the coveted Grand Prix de Rome.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Ed stopped his car at a parking meter, found no change in his pockets, and headed for the nearest store to get some. By the time he returned, a policeman was already writing out a ticket. Outraged, Ed took the matter to court.

"It is true," he told the judge, "that our city ordinance says the coin must be put in 'immediately.' But that is ridiculous. Surely I am entitled to enough time to get change."

However, the court ordered him to pay the fine. The judge felt that for the sake of administrative efficiency, the city could indeed insist on immediate payment — without leaving any loopholes at all.

There is something about parking meters that at times awakens the rebel in a rugged individualist. Nevertheless, in assorted courtroom confrontations between citizen and meter, the law has usually upheld the meter. As one judge put it:

"Some hardships must be undergone by those who enjoy the benefits of life in large communities."

Thus, in another case, a court found nothing wrong with parking meters that sold 12-minute intervals for the first hour — but only an undivided one-hour's worth for the second hour. If this was discrimination against second-hour users, as a citizen charged, it was held not to be unreasonable discrimination.

NO RIGHT

Another citizen, attacking from a different direction, refused to accept a parking ticket from a "meter maid." He argued that the city could not use anything less than a regular policeman for law enforcement. But again, the court decided a city has this much leeway in running its parking meter system.

Still, the law won't tolerate everything. For example, meters cannot ordinarily be used as a means of raising money for purposes outside the field of traffic control. Accordingly, a court decided that a city had no right to pay for harbor improvements out of parking meter income.

Another court added this warning:

"A municipality cannot turn parking meters into a business for profit. It cannot establish a commercial enterprise on the public easement."

..And Speaking Of Your Health

My husband and I lost our first child. He was born deformed. It is a year ago now and I cannot find any peace of mind. I have reviewed my entire pregnancy and even recalled the kinds of pills I had taken, to find a reason. I had come in contact with a child who had German measles in my second month. Can you help me find an explanation of why I have been punished?

Mrs. B. W. Michigan
Dr. Coleman

Dear Mrs. W.:

The rest of your letter describes the many birth abnormalities that add to your pain and unnecessary guilt. You have had a very shattering experience which cannot be healed by time alone.

The one possible reason for these birth defects may be attributed to the German measles that you were exposed to or even had contracted.

I do believe that it is time to reconcile yourself that this experience is one of the unhappy ones that do occur but there are many exciting and happy events in store for you.

You must adopt a reasonable attitude that you have not been punished for anything you have done. None of us can look back over the years and not chastise himself for something that should have been done. Perfectly good lives have been wasted by those who, like yourself, continue to beat their emotions endlessly in an effort to do penance for that for which they are not responsible.

Rather than continue wasting your emotions why don't you now discuss the possibility of another pregnancy with your physician? He undoubtedly will give you the assurance that there is little or no possibility of a repetition of such a sad experience. You then will be able to concentrate on the true joys of raising a healthy child who will bring you limitless gratification by his good health.

My son is not yet three years old but is infatuated with skin. Ever since he was a baby he enjoys and is soothed by being in contact with me. Now he even comes into the dressing room so that I will pick him up. Should I discourage this? Is this a danger sign? He is normal and healthy and receives as much affection as any child in the family.

Dear Mrs. C.: The security your child feels when in contact with you must not be misinterpreted. All of us with a psychological background look for hidden reasons when none may exist.

The warmth and gentle touch of skin adds to the security he seeks. It is not unusual and your child should not be discouraged. The chances are that the rejection he would feel is far more damaging than your concern. A consultation with your own doctor or with a psychologist will help direct your attitudes and alleviate your fears.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH: Despite all warnings, young men find ways to tattoo their arms. Later they are likely to regret it.

Dr. Coleman welcomes letters from readers, and, while he cannot undertake to answer each one, he will use questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Coleman in care of this newspaper.

Contract Bridge

You are South, neither side vulnerable. The bidding has been:

East	South	West	North
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	Pass

What would you bid now with each of the following four hands?

1. ♠Q6 ♥AQ85 ♦AK72 ♣J93
2. ♠AQ ♥83 ♦K64 ♦AKQ872
3. ♠85 ♥AKJ72 ♦A3 ♣KJ75
4. ♠A7 ♥QJ93 ♦KQJ865 ♣AK

1. Pass. When you compete against an opponent's opening bid by doubling for takeout, and partner then responds in minimum terms that is, by failing to make a jump bid or a cuebid — you must proceed on the basis that partner's response promises very little in the way of either high cards or distribution.

It follows that you should pass two hearts with this hand, despite the 16 high-card points, because the possibility of making four opposite a forced response is quite remote. As a matter of fact, there is some danger that partner cannot make even two hearts. You have quite a bundle of losers for partner to take care of, and it would be overly optimistic as well as dangerous to raise to three hearts.

2. Three notrump. While passimism opposite partner's minimum response is generally a very healthy attitude to adopt, there is nonetheless such a thing as carrying it too far. Here you have eight probable tricks to start with, and while it is true that you may never make a ninth, the odds are that you will. Excessive caution can sometimes do more harm than good.

3. Three hearts. The most you can do here is raise to three hearts, which indicates a strong hand and requests partner to go on to four with only a few scattered values. This hand is far more promising than the first one, though the high-card point count is the same. There are many fewer losers in this case.

4. Four hearts. It is best to go all out with this one, even though East-West may have the A-K of hearts and two side aces. It is much too risky to bid only three hearts, since partner might pass with some dreadful hand that contains only the king of hearts or one of the three missing aces.

Even if it turns out that partner has none of the four key cards and goes down one, the loss is apt to be more fancied than real, since East-West in such case could almost surely make at least three spades or four clubs.

BOGUS CASH TURNS UP AT FAIRPLAIN PLAZA

Victim Was Washington Woman, 42,

Struck By Car
On Expressway
Early Yesterday

A woman killed while walking on I-94 early yesterday has been identified through FBI fingerprint files as Arlene Julia Gary, 42, of Soap Lake, Wash., wanted in Olympia, Wash., for parole violation.

Personal identification was also made at St. Joseph Memorial hospital yesterday by a companion of the woman, Oscar Burns, 51, who said he was traveling with her. They were using the names of a Portland, Ore., couple, according to Schalton.

Schalton confiscated credit cards bearing the couple's name. The cards had been reported stolen and allegedly were being used by someone traveling across the country. Burns was arrested on charges of forgery and uttering and publishing.

Schalton reported the investigation turned up these events:

Burns was located when Schalton went to a camp site near Grand Mere after receiving a tip. Schalton said Burns and Miss Gary had planned to camp Thursday night there.

Burns' car got stuck and another man helped him pull it out. Burns treated the man to some whisky and beer. Burns then retired and Miss Gary drove off with the other man, after saying she wanted to sleep in a motel instead of on the ground.

CAR HITS TREE

Miss Gary got out of the car after it struck a tree. She was next seen waving her arms in the middle lane of I-94 a half mile south of the Stevensville exit. She was struck and killed by a car driven by Donald I. Battjes, Jr., 25, of Grand Rapids. He was not held.

Schalton said the man who left the camp site with Miss Gary was not located.

Miss Gary was on parole until 1968. Schalton said he did not know the nature of the offense.

Her mother, Avonda Gary, resides at Hastings, Mich., where the body was to be taken for burial.

The soloist is Ken Stanek, music director of the Galien public schools, and his instrument is the euphonium or baritone horn. Stanek has been a member of the band for several years, and his solo, "Moreau Symphonique," affords a melodic vehicle for the seldom heard sound of the euphonium.

Highlights from the musical "I do! I do!" which starred Mary Martin and Preston Foster and "76 Trombones" from "The Music Man" will also be presented. Marches include "The Thunderer" by John Phillip Sousa, and "American Heroes," by Michael Camarata.

Special requests including "The Donkey Serenade" and "Begone for Band" will be additional attractions. A total of 12 numbers will be presented.

The concert will begin at 2:30 and 7 p.m. Only two concerts remain after Sunday on the schedule, and Director John E. N. Howard urges all area residents to enjoy the band's presentations before the end of the season.

The program for Sunday's concert follows:

Gas Station Hit Twice By Thieves

Rural BH Man Is Arrested

The Clark gas station on Napier avenue, across from Fairplain Plaza, was hit twice by thieves last night for a total of $73. An arrest was made following the second incident and $30 was recovered.

Benton township police charged Carl Jean Rapert, 21, of route 1, Meadowbrook road, with larceny from a building after $30 was taken from a backroom of the station about 3:45 a.m. today.

The station attendant, Larry Dickson, 22, of 726 Ogden avenue, Benton Harbor, was robbed of $43 earlier when a man grabbed a fold of money from his shirt pocket and fled. The strong arm robbery occurred about 10:30 p.m.

Dickson said the man walked into the station and asked for a pack of gum. He then grabbed for the money, tearing Dickson's pocket. Police said the robber was a Negro wearing a blue-green turtle neck shirt.

WRITES DOWN LICENSE

The second incident occurred about 3:45 a.m. when a car with three white men pulled into the station. Two of the men got out and watched Dickson working on a car while the driver, went into the station.

Dickson said he noticed the backroom door open as the three were leaving and went to check. Finding the $30 missing, he wrote down the license number of the car and called police.

Three men later were picked up inside the Holmsted restaurant, 1850 East Napier avenue, by Berrien county sheriff Lt. Paul Mills, who was in the restaurant drinking coffee.

Township Det. Raymond Frye said $30 was found in a pack of cigarettes. Rapert's two companions were not held.

Awarded Rubbish Contract

Stevensville Has Minibike Problem

The Stevensville village council last night awarded the village's sanitary rubbish contract to the Jerry Allen Sanitary Refuse service.

A total of four bids were opened and Allen's offer of $1.15 per stop per month was the low bid submitted. The contract, which now is in the hands of village Attorney Tat Parish and must subsequently be signed by the council, will last for two years.

Allen presently serves the rubbish pickup needs of Stevensville with a total of 315 stops. This figure might increase slightly, Allen and the board agreed, when the number of stops are totaled under the new contract.

In other action, the council heard complaints from local residents about minibike riders in the village and announced the amount of money received from the state vehicle highway fund for the second quarter of this year.

Residents in the Karen court neighborhood of Stevensville complained to the council about the nuisance of minibike riders on that street. Citizens claimed that the rider's activities were disturbing their families during the afternoon hours.

Residents said their attempts to solve the problem have only resulted in verbal harassment from the minibike riders. Gerald Hasse, village police commissioner, said police have asked the youngsters to stop creating a disturbance but the requests have mostly been ignored. He and other councilmen said new attempts will be made to solve the problem.

A total of $3,872 was received during the second quarter of the year in state motor vehicle highway fund payments; $3,103 was granted for major streets and $789 was directed toward local street development.

School Set To Register

Grace Lutheran school in St. Joseph will hold registration for fall term on Monday, August 25, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. School will begin on Tuesday, September 2, with opening services at 8:30 a.m. for all students and parents.

Faculty members this year will be Kenneth Nolte, principal, who will teach sixth through eighth grades; Paul Goode, third through fifth; Miss Mary Manske, first through second; and Mrs. Ronald Fites, kindergarten.

Fourteen Bad $10 Bills Found

Secret Service Called To Investigate

A rash of 14 counterfeit $10 bills broke out in Fairplain Plaza yesterday, according to David Ohman, branch manager at the Farmers and Merchants National bank branch.

Bearing the serial number D6743883A, the bills differ from two bogus tens which surfaced last week in downtown Benton Harbor.

Ohman said the bills are fairly good quality, being photo reproductions of real tenspots, but the paper is bad. He described the bills taken in yesterday, all alike, as having a whiter white and a blacker black than genuine currency.

No description of the passers were available.

Ohman said a secret service agent was in Benton Harbor yesterday making an investigation. The Grand Rapids office of the Secret Service said the bills were confirmed to be already on record in Washington, D.C., where files of all counterfeit bills are kept.

CHICAGO PASSINGS

Secret Service officials said they think the bills first surfaced in Chicago and may be migrating eastward.

The Grand Rapids office said the agent in charge of the investigation had no leads on the passer or passers of the bills here. Ohman said 13 of the bills were passed in stores in the Plaza. Bank tellers first noticed them in night deposit envelopes, he said. One bill was passed in downtown Benton Harbor.

Ohman said he was not aware of bills at other banks but said it was possible for them to have been received there as well.

He said persons receiving the bogus tens should not worry about turning them in to the police or to a bank. "We're not going to pull that burglar alarm" when a bad ten is turned in.

Verdict Is Near In BH Shooting

A Berrien circuit court jury was expected to decide the fate today of Ralph Gettersson, 34, on trial for the 1967 shootings of his mother - in - law and father - in - law.

Following the opening statement of defense attorney George Keller said that Gettersson was suffering from a psychotic delusion, Gettersson later testified that he wounded the couple, Arthur and Alberta Arndt, in self defense.

HALLOWEEN NIGHT

The shootings occurred on Halloween night when the Arndts were living at Superior street and Catalpa avenue, Benton Harbor. Gettersson and his wife were separated.

Gettersson, formerly of Stevensville, said that he shot Arndt once because Arndt pointed a shotgun at him after he came to the Arndt house looking for his son. Then he fired through the dining room window wounding Mrs. Arndt three times because he thought someone was shooting at him from inside the room, he said.

Defense attorneys Keller and Bruce Conybeare of Benton Harbor described Gettersson's actions as bizarre, evidencing Gettersson's incapacity to have the requisite intent to commit the crime of murder.

MENTALLY ILL

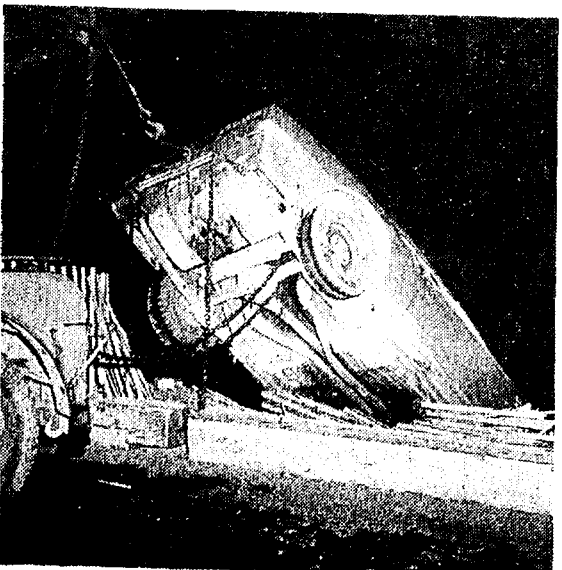

Reports made by two Kalamazoo State Hospital psychiatrists on Jan. 20, 1968, that Gettersson was mentally ill were introduced into evidence. A Benton Harbor psychiatrist was scheduled to appear today on behalf of the defense.

The Arndt's testified earlier that neither of them was armed, nor had they threatened Gettersson then or earlier.

Arndt's right arm is still crippled from the blast of the .357 magnum revolver Gettersson admitted firing. The bullet is still lodged in his back, he said. Mrs. Arndt was shot in the knee, thigh and pelvis.

CAR ON BRINK: A wrecker pulls car from edge of Ox Creek bridge on south M-139 early today after the car came to a halt 50 feet above a ravine. The car rested on the edge of the beams that protruded from the edge of the bridge. Escaping serious injury or death were the driver Ambrose D. Huffman, 24, of Route 1, Watervliet, and companion Sylvia Krzyzostan, 21, of Detroit. They were able to step out of the car onto the bridge from the door on the passenger side. Huffman was issued a summons by Benton township police for failure to maintain control of his car. (Staff photo).

Model Cities Dental Plan Outlined

Three Council Members Dropped For Absenteeism

Proposals for a dental program and an information service center were taken under study last night by the Citizen's Steering Council (CSC) of the Benton Harbor-Benton township Model Cities program.

The dental program would be aimed at providing care for persons within the 1,236 acre area who were not now involved in a school-sponsored dental help program.

Dr. C. Bassett Brown, an oral surgeon, asked the council to finance hiring of an expert to make the study needed to develop the program. He said such an expert would be available for $50 a day and expenses in September and he estimated it would take three days for the work.

MEMBERS DROPPED

In other areas, the council dropped three more of the original 19-member body from the rolls because of lack of attendance at meetings; and rated education as the most pressing problem in the Model Cities neighborhood.

Dropped from membership were Mrs. Gwendolyn (Baird) Lewis, Huber Love and Mrs. Blossie Mae Broyles. By council rules, members missing three consecutive meetings without an approved reason are automatically eliminated. Replacements will be named at the next meeting.

Already gone from the original 19 are Sammie Rodgers, Curtis Hartford and Alex Bookcr. They have been replaced by Mrs. Claudette Hill, Arnold Smith and Nate Wells, Jr.

The rating of problems resulted from an informal poll by the council and reversed an earlier belief that housing was number one. Housing was listed as second.

Dr. Brown, in outlining the dental help proposal, said the program would be started among school students not now covered by the school program. This year, he said, the school program, financed through federal funds, was to be extended through ninth grade.

The number of students in grades 10-12 not covered, said Dr. Brown, was about 450. Coverage for adults would be provided in the second phase of the program, he indicated.

Dr. Brown said the Tri-county Dental Association had been urged to begin planning for the program by the state dental association.

The consultant would compile information on treatment needed and outline the program for submission to the federal government for funding, Dr. Brown said. In all, a director, a secretary and at least 10 dentists would be involved.

REFERRAL CENTER

Warren P. Mitchell proposed that an information-referral center be created to handle areas involving code enforcement policies in the city, housing repair and related fields. The center, he said, could be set up in the Model Cities office.

According to Mitchell, the center would either supplement an existing effort by the Highland House or develop into an expansion of that program. He said the Highland House program does not now cover all of the fields necessary.

Under Mitchell's proposal, organizations and agencies concerned with housing would be contacted for planning the new program. A letter outlining the proposal for the agencies was offered by Mitchell.

BANGOR VOTES MONDAY ON BOND PROPOSAL

ARSON SUSPECTED: State police detectives believe this blaze which leveled Covert Lumber & Supply Co. was intentionally set. They ruled out electrical wiring and spontaneous ignition as causes of Wednesday night fire which leveled two lumber company buildings and adjacent hardware warehouse at loss of over $55,000. Nine Van Buren county fire departments fought blaze about four hours.

Arsonist Blamed For
$55,000 Covert Fire

COVERT — An arson investigation is under way in the Wednesday night fire which destroyed the Covert Lumber & Supply Co. and an adjacent store house at an estimated loss of over $55,000.

Det. Lewis Smith of the South Haven state police post today ruled out natural causes for starting the blaze.

He said he found no evidence that the fire originated in electrical wiring or combustible materials through spontaneous ignition.

Smith said he believes an arsonist started the fire in the office building of the lumber firm. At one time the office building was a feed mill. Smith said nothing was stored in the building which would have ignited by itself.

SIGNS OF ENTRY
Van Buren county deputies noticed a plywood covering had been pulled loose from an office window which indicated that entry may have been made at that point, the detective said.

Smith said he is interviewing several witnesses in trying to determine origin of the fire.

Austin Vandervoegh, owner of a hardware store across the street from the lumber company, told police that he had seen two boys try to set fire to a plastic-covered car seat on the porch of the lumber company office Tuesday night. Vandervoegh's storage building near the two lumber company buildings also was destroyed in the fire.

He could not give police a good description of the two youths.

DOWAGIAC — A fisherman was killed on Magician lake near South Bend, Ind., who was vacationing at Magician lake.

Northrop said the name of the youth was being withheld, pending further investigation by him and Herman Saitz, Cass county prosecutor. The youth has not yet been charged, Northrop said.

Boston died of a skull fracture, according to Rolla Schoff, Cass county coroner. Schoff said the fisherman's boat did not sink and the victim had not been thrown into the water.

The body was taken to Connelly funeral home in Cassopolis and then transferred to the Forest G. Flay funeral home, South Bend, Boston has children residing in the South Bend area, the Connelly funeral home reported.

Berrien
Too Late
For FundsRecreation Bond
Share Is Out

The state's $100 million recreation bond act has a Sept. 2 deadline for municipalities like Berrien county to submit plans, Berrien planning commissioners discovered in a letter Thursday.

The deadline, in a letter from the Department of Natural Resources, means Berrien won't be able to apply this fiscal year for a share of the $100 million set aside to communities and others, said Planning Director Thomas Sinn. But the county hopes to try for a share in the 1970 fiscal year.

Planners estimate of the $30 million available to various municipalities, Berrien's possible share might be only a half-billion dollars.

The $100 million is divided into shares for local communities — including counties and other municipalities — plus various state projects.

Also Thursday, planners received a report that a second-year long-range planning grant totaling $32,700—and including $10,900 Berrien county share — has been received from the state.

Approved various community plans as a prelude to their applications for government grants. The plans are for an expansion of the Twin Cities sewage treatment plant; a proposed Lincoln and St. Joseph township sewage system that would pipe to the Twin Cities plant; a sewage system in the village of Three Oaks; and an expansion of the Niles city waste water treatment plant to include Niles township and portions of Bertrand township plus portions of the Cass county townships of Howard and Milton.

The lights will show green for US-31 traffic unless changed by traffic approaching the intersection on Bell road. Detectors will be buried in the pavement will be activated when Bell road vehicles pass over the detectors.

The lights will be connected with signals at Bertrand and Fulkerson road intersections on US-31 to insure as smooth a flow of traffic as possible, highway department spokesmen said.

Cost of the installation will be shared by the Highway department and Berrien county.

GALIEN — The Galien school district millage proposal was defeated by 80 votes Wednesday, not by a 20-vote margin as reported erroneously in Thursday's editions of this newspaper.

Tallulations of the vote showed the proposal to levy 4 mills for two years was defeated 362 "no" to 282 "yes." A total of 657 persons voted and 13 ballots were spoiled.

To Expand
Classroom
Facilities$1,825,000 Asked
For Elementary,
Middle Levels

BANGOR — Bangor school district residents will vote Monday on a $1,825,000 bonding proposition to expand and improve classrooms on both the elementary and middle school levels.

Proposed are a new 24-room elementary school for $856,000; an addition to and renovation of the middle school, including demolition of the 1902 section, $789,000.

The remaining $80,000 is for interest on the debt, to be paid off for over the next 30 years.

Bangor School Superintendent Howard Beyer said the debt would be paid off by an additional 1.8-mill levy.

The district now levies 27.28 mills, including 12 extra voted operating mills, 8.68 allocated mills and 6.6 mills for debt retirement.

Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday, in the new gymnasium on Walnut street.

ALL CAN VOTE
All registered voters of the district may ballot under a U.S. Supreme court ruling permitting those who do not own property to vote on bonding issues.

The $956,000 for the proposed 24-room elementary building includes construction, $900,000; furniture, $46,000; and site, $10,000.

The $789,000 for the middle school includes:

Nine additional classrooms and a locker room, $566,100; remodeling the 1929 wing, $117,400; remodeling the agriculture building section into three classrooms, $14,800; furniture, $70,200; demolition of the 1902 section, $17,000; and land, $3,500.

Bangor district voters last February defeated a $1,655 bonding proposition for improvements to the elementary and middle school. Defeated last August was a $580,000 bond issue for a new elementary school.

ISSUE APPROVED
Approved at Bangor was a $1,175,000 bond issue for the new senior high school and a six-room addition to the elementary building. These projects were completed in 1968.

Unlike the bonding request last February, the ballot Monday does not involve plans to purchase the Sacred Heart Catholic church school building here. The board of education decided not to pursue plans to acquire this school.

Superintendent Beyer said the proposal Monday is $170,000 higher (than the one last February) that included $200,000 for the church school because of rising building costs and increased interest.

Beyer said the elementary enrollment jumped from 786 in the 1963-64 school year to 1,153 last year while the middle school enrollment jumped from 200 to 225 during the same period. He indicated that forecasts call for about 1,179 elementary and 476 middle school students by the 1973-74 year.

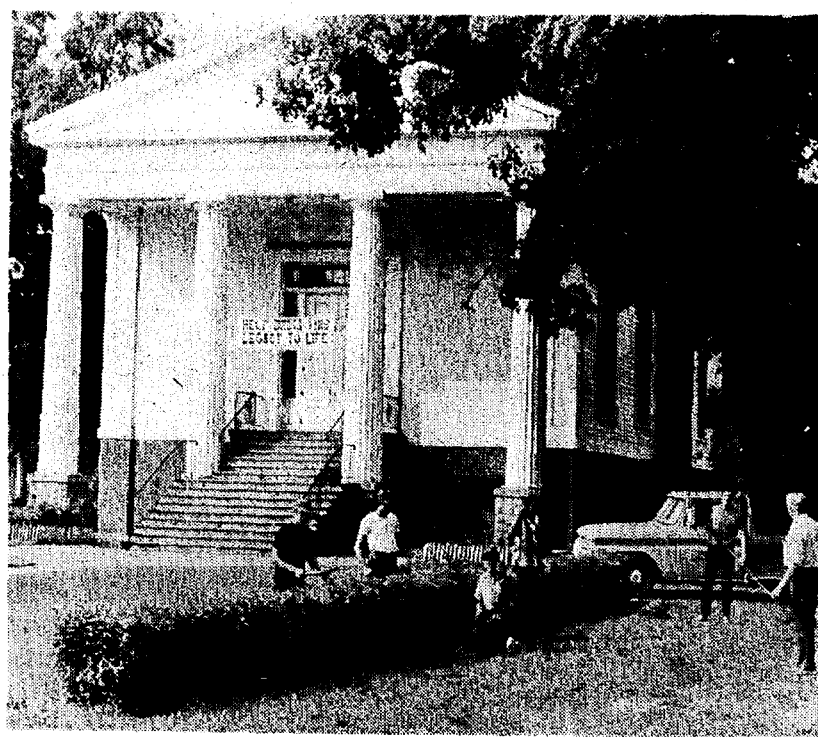

PART OF PROGRAM
In February, the proposed program was advanced as the second of three-part building program. The first was completion of the high school and the third was to be an addition to the high school at a later date. Senior high enrollment increased from 443 in 1963-64 to 482 last year, with an enrollment of 685 anticipated by the 1973-74 school year.

In allowing residents who do not own property to vote Monday, two ballots must be used and counted separately before the results are combined, Robert Truhn of Lansing, the district's bonding attorney said.

Property owners will use a white ballot with a blue registration slip, while others will use a tan ballot with white registration slip.

Truhn said that before the high court ruling Michigan was one of 18 states which did not allow residents without property holdings to ballot on bonding issues. All registered voters have been permitted to vote on millage issues.

Clean-up crew includes (from left) David LaRondello, Bradley Hill, Harold Cole, Sam Leer and Steve Becker. Completed in 1839, the picturesque courthouse was vacated in 1895 when county seat was moved to St. Joseph. About 1902 it was used as an administration building and classrooms when Emmanuel Missionary college, predecessor of Andrews university, moved to Berrien Springs from Battle Creek. Later it was converted to church by Seventh-day Adventists and used for weekly services until three years ago when it was resold to Berrien county and leased to Berrien County Historical society for use as a museum.

Vote Is Set In Lawton
On 2-Mill Extra Levy

LAWTON — Residents of the Lawton school district will vote Monday in a special election for two extra operating mills which would run for three years.

Superintendent George Dannecker said the proposed levy would bring in $27,200 in operating money each year to the district.

Polls will be open at the Lawton elementary school from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Approval of the two mills would mean an improvement in teachers salaries, the hiring of two additional teachers, and badly needed repairs for the high school gymnasium and the high school building, according to Dannecker.

If approved, the two mills would give the district a total of 14 extra voted mills for operating funds. Dannecker added that only 11 mills of the 12-mill levy approved in 1968 were assessed this year.

The total millage levy would then be 26.49 for this year including 8.68 allocated mills, 12 operating mills, voted extra in 1968, 3.81 mills for debt retirement, plus the 2 mills being voted on.

Seeks To Ban Autos
On Public Lakefront

Berrien County Prosecutor Ronald J. Taylor today called for state legislation to restrict dune buggies on public beaches and dunes.

Taylor also advised property owners, annoyed with the roar and hazards of dune buggies, to post their land against trespass. This will permit prosecution.

Operation of dune buggies "has acquired the proportion of a national craze and in many instances created a serious hazard to persons and property," Taylor said.

There presently are no laws in Michigan specifically applying to dune buggies.

Taylor commented in the wake of an accident last Saturday when a Grand Rapids radio announcer was injured seriously when he was run over by a vehicle while sleeping on a public beach with his family. The driver has not been apprehended.

The prosecutor also advised against sleeping on beaches. "While such persons may have every right to enjoy the moon and the stars lying on a beach at night, they are taking a chance of being accidentally, but nevertheless seriously injured."

Different types of vehicles are used for dune buggies. If they are operated on streets or highways, they must meet motor vehicle requirements and the driver be licensed.

Buchanan's Chest
Goal Set At $41,607

BUCHANAN — The 1970 budget of the Buchanan Community Fund, Inc., totaling $41,607, has been approved by the board of directors on the recommendation of the admissions and budget committee. The new budget represents an increase of $4,064 over the 1969 budget.

The increase is due to allocations to two agencies not included previously in the Community Fund. The Niles-Buchanan YMCA has received an allocation of $2,000 and Berrien County Legal Services Bureau was given $1,000. A grant to an agency is for one year. The following year an agency can receive another grant or be denied additional funding.

Other allocations included in the budget are: Salvation Army, $1,800; hospitalization fund, $600; Handicapped Camping, Inc., $240; Niles School for Exceptional Children, $1,000; Michigan Children's Aid Society, $1,330; Berrien County Cancer Society, $4,210; Girl Scouts, $4,100; Boy Scouts, $5,300; St. Joseph Valley Mental Health Service, $720; Berrien County Family Counseling Service, $565; Christmas baskets, $100; Big Brothers of Niles and Buchanan, $650; Michigan United Fund, $7,592; and American Red Cross, $5,800.

Also allocated were agency emergency fund of $100; reserve for collection losses, $1,500; and administration and campaign expenses, $3,000.

The annual drive for funds opens Sept. 15 and will continue through Sept. 30, according to Joe Garbert, campaign chairman. David Hunter is the co-chairman.

NEW BUFFALO — The New Buffalo Parent-Teachers association will hold its annual senior scholarship tag day Saturday.

Each year a college-bound New Buffalo high school senior is selected to receive a cash grant, the amount being determined by the tag day proceeds. Charles Haemker, 120 South Barker street, New Buffalo, was the 1969 recipient of a $200 award. He will attend Western Michigan university in September.

Tax Exclusions Help Build For Retirement

By SAM SHULSKY

Q. My husband is self-employed with about $14,000 a year in net earnings. We are in our mid-30s. We've been thinking of putting $10,000 into a mutual fund. We now hold $40,000 in savings, plus various amounts of A.T. & T. Cleveland Electric, Commonwealth Edison and Consumer Power. Please comment.

A. I think you've been a bit too conservative thus far, although that's no crime—in this stock market or any other.

Several thoughts come to mind:

1—Assuming the savings account is not required for use in your business, it's a bit on the high side.

2—As a self-employed person it doesn't make sense to put $10,000 into a fund in a lump sum or in one year since (assuming net earnings of $14,000 a year) only $1,400 of it will be excluded from taxable income under the Keogh bill. To get the most value out of this program, which grants tax credits to self-employed individuals building a retirement fund, you should put $1,400 a year into a mutual fund and thus be in a position to exclude that much annually from your taxable income. Make sure the fund establishes your plan under the Keogh bill.

3—The $10,000 lump sum you want to put into securities could well go into growth stocks. And over the next couple of years you could use more cash for that purpose.

4—Most of your holdings now are on the conservative side. But with fresh money to put into growth stocks and growth-type mutuals I see no reason to disturb the present portfolio.

Q. I was told that a mutual fund pays out 12 per cent on money invested. Also, that I could draw $50 a month from a $5,000 investment, or $100 from a $10,000 investment. Is this true?

A. A mutual fund DOES NOT pay out a fixed amount on your investment.

Your particular fund boosted assets 22 per cent last year—which was just about the average for the newer, smaller "go-go" funds. In the first half of this year however, it lost about 10 per cent. If you can put these two figures together and arrive at any worthwhile prediction of pay-out over the next few decades you're a better man than I am.

You can draw $50 a month from a $5,000 mutual fund investment. You can draw $500 a month—for one month. It's your money, so you can withdraw as much as you like.

But if you're asking me what is considered a "normal" withdrawal, I can only tell you that the mutual fund industry itself generally recommends a monthly withdrawal of $50 from every $10,000 (not $5,000) invested. I put "normal" in quotes because I have letters from readers who complain that even $50 withdrawal from a $10,000 investment has depleted their assets as well as letters which say that their stake has increased all the time they were withdrawing $50 a month.

Funds vary in their ability to generate income and gains. And the same fund will vary widely from one year to the next.

All I can say with absolute certainty is that any mutual fund salesman who promises you a fixed percentage return without risk of invading your capital is talking through his hat.

Trading was at its lowest level in more than a week Thursday as the market moved in a narrow range before steadying to close with a small gain.

Analysts said the market's ability to stay above the 830 level on the Dow Jones industrial average indicated "it may have a little further to go."

The DJI closed Thursday up 1.65 at 834.87. The Associated Press 60-stock average gained 8 to 204.4.

American Stock Exchange prices were mixed.
